

A nun who followed her faith and later became Luther's wife

KATHARINA VON BORA

Born: Jan. 29, 1499 | Saxony

Died: Dec. 20, 1552 | Torgau, Germany

AN ESCAPED NUN, WIFE AND MOTHER OF SIX CHILDREN, Katharina was a woman

of considerable strength and courage. When she learned from Martin Luther's writings that Christ's grace came through faith alone, not through her prayers and works as a nun, she left her convent life. The freedom she gained from this knowledge also allowed her to marry the man whose writings had taught her about God's saving grace. As manager of their household, she kept everything in order so Luther could focus on theological issues. It was no wonder he called her "Katie, my rib."

REFORMATION
2017 It's Still All About
Jesus

LutheranReformation.org

A nun who followed her faith and later became Luther's wife

KATHARINA VON BORA

Born: Jan. 29, 1499 | Saxony

Died: Dec. 20, 1552 | Torgau, Germany

AN ESCAPED NUN, WIFE AND MOTHER OF SIX CHILDREN, Katharina was a woman

of considerable strength and courage. When she learned from Martin Luther's writings that Christ's grace came through faith alone, not through her prayers and works as a nun, she left her convent life. The freedom she gained from this knowledge also allowed her to marry the man whose writings had taught her about God's saving grace. As manager of their household, she kept everything in order so Luther could focus on theological issues. It was no wonder he called her "Katie, my rib."

REFORMATION
2017 It's Still All About
Jesus

LutheranReformation.org

FACES OF THE REFORMATION

A nun who followed her faith and later became Luther's wife

KATHARINA VON BORA

Born: Jan. 29, 1499 | Saxony

Died: Dec. 20, 1552 | Torgau, Germany

AN ESCAPED NUN, WIFE AND MOTHER OF SIX CHILDREN,

Katharina was a woman of considerable strength and courage. When she learned from Martin Luther's writings that Christ's grace came through faith alone, not through her prayers and works as a nun, she left her convent life. The freedom she gained from this knowledge also allowed her to marry the man whose writings had taught her about God's saving grace. As manager of their household, she kept everything in order so Luther could focus on theological issues. It was no wonder he called her "Katie, my rib."

REFORMATION
2017 It's Still All About
Jesus

LutheranReformation.org

THE LUTHERAN CHURCH—MISSOURI SYNOD

ConcordiaHistoricalInstitute.org

FACES OF THE REFORMATION

A nun who followed her faith and later became Luther's wife

KATHARINA VON BORA

Born: Jan. 29, 1499 | Saxony

Died: Dec. 20, 1552 | Torgau, Germany

AN ESCAPED NUN, WIFE AND MOTHER OF SIX CHILDREN,

Katharina was a woman of considerable strength and courage. When she learned from Martin Luther's writings that Christ's grace came through faith alone, not through her prayers and works as a nun, she left her convent life. The freedom she gained from this knowledge also allowed her to marry the man whose writings had taught her about God's saving grace. As manager of their household, she kept everything in order so Luther could focus on theological issues. It was no wonder he called her "Katie, my rib."

REFORMATION
2017 It's Still All About
Jesus

LutheranReformation.org

THE LUTHERAN CHURCH—MISSOURI SYNOD

ConcordiaHistoricalInstitute.org